Many Designs Possible

Wide strips and multi-strips

A parquet is made up of strips of different lengths and widths assembled together. We offer wide strip and multi-strip parquets.

Wide Strip ▼

Multi-Strip ▼

- The wide strips are made of a single element (like a plank).
- Multi-strip parquets are made of several strips joined together.

Whilst from the point of view of convenience and durability there is no difference between a wide strip parquet and a multi-strip parquet, the appearance with the same wood species, is not identical.

Installation

We provide new hardwood floor installation on concrete slabs, over plywood sub floors, or over existing wood floors. We also install new wood sub floors when needed and we control the moisture by applying a protecting film barrier between sub floors and the new floor

ENGINEERED

FLOORING

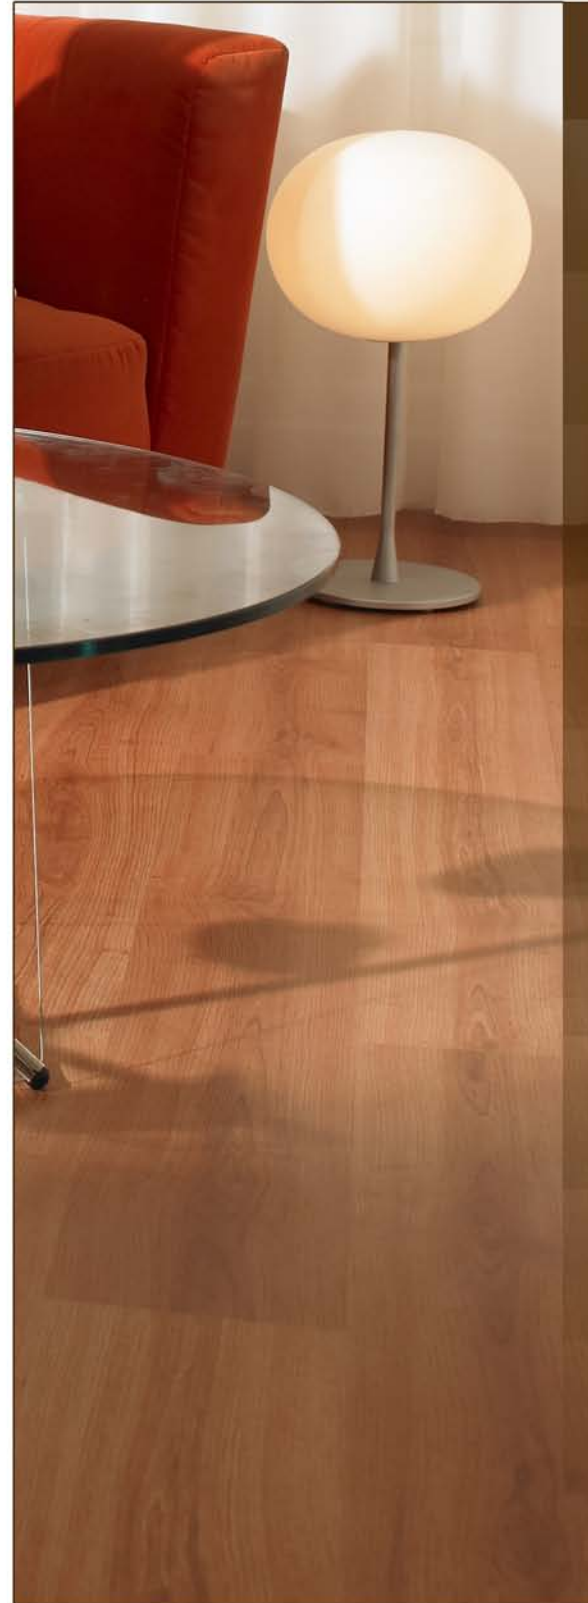

Engineered FLOORING

Engineered flooring is constructed from several wood plies that are glued together. The centre core is generally a softer wood material and is used to make the tongue and groove. A hardwood finish layer is glued on top of the centre core and another softer wood ply is attached underneath the core. It is this construction method which gives engineered flooring its stability. This stability allows the floor to be installed as a floating floor directly onto concrete or timber subfloors making it ideal for DIY

LAMINATE

FLOORING

Laminate FLOORING

Laminate Flooring mimics the look of traditional woods while offering easy installation and lasting durability. A wear-resistant decorative surface made of resin-based melamine makes the floor extremely difficult to stain, scratch, or burn with a cigarette. Laminate flooring is typically installed as a floating floor, which means it does not fasten directly to the sub-floor. Instead the planks are clicked together. This enables the floor to be fitted fast and with no real mess

If you're looking for a quick and easy way of making a floor look good, laminate floor tiling may be the solution for you. Laminate flooring tiles look like wood, but they're actually made out of a synthetic material.
